Family Resources Survey, 2019 to 2020

Background

The Family Resources Survey (FRS) is a continuous survey which collects

Uses of FRS Data

The Office for National Statistics produces small area model-based income estimates as the official estimates of annual household income at the middle layer super output area (MSOA) level in England and Wales. The estimates are produced using a

Methodology

Response

Stage two post-interview checks

Once an interview has taken place, data are returned to ONS, NatCen, or NISRA. At this stage, editing takes place, based on any notes made hpd

Stage six –imputation

The responses to some questions are much more likely to have missing values than others. For example, it is very unlikely that a respondent will refuse to give or will not know their age or marital status; whereas it is much more likely that they will not be able to provide precise information on the amount of interest received from their investment
